CONSECRATION

"Take this, all of you, and eat of it, for this is my Body which will be given up for you. Take this, all of you, for this is the cup of my Blood of the new and eternal covenant; it will be poured out for you and for all for the forgiveness of sins. Do this in memory of Me" (Eucharistic Prayer).

At the heart of the Eucharistic Prayer, the priest says and does what Christ said and did at the Last Supper. The power of Christ's words and actions, and the power of the Holy Spirit, make present the sacrifice of the Cross. The bread appears unchanged, but it is no longer bread: it is the Body of Christ. The wine appears unchanged, but it is no longer wine, it is the Blood of Christ.

The priest shows the consecrated Host to the faithful, and after that the chalice containing the Blood of Christ. A bell may be rung; incense may be offered. The Church is, for a moment, full of adoring silence. Then, out of this silence, the priest raises his voice in a cry of Eucharistic amazement: "The mystery of faith."
